I really enjoyed the Kingdom Education UK Summer School Program. One of the most eye opening experiences were the various top universities we visited. It's not easy to get a tour and presentations of top universities by University students and being able to ask direct questions about the universities. London is a very busy city, I did enjoy seeing the different buildings but sleeping at night was hard. I had trouble falling asleep to the lullaby of the city sounds, especially from the cars whereas Durham was a quiet and peaceful place. I also really enjoyed the classes as they were very interactive. I felt that the teacher and the students in the classes were very open. Everyone listened to different opinions and at the same time shared their own opinions. This helped me step out of my comfort zone. I'm extremely grateful that I'm able to attend this program. I really encourage everyone and anyone to go as this program is really worth it. It really helps give a clearer picture of what you want to do in the future.

I personally think that this is an amazing opportunity. Everyone should have a chance to experience this kind of educational trip especially if they are considering to study in the United Kingdom, United States of America, Australia or New Zealand. This programme has helped me narrowed down the courses that I'm considering to take in the future and also set my mind on the type of universities that I prefer. I've also found a new interest in the neuroscience subject and debating through the classes that we took. Not to mention I've met some of the most amazing people across the globe and got to share some of the most incredible moments with them. I always thought that I would prefer to study in the city since I grew up in a city. However, after staying in both London and Durham, I realise the city wasn't my cup of tea. Personally, I've benefited a lot from this trip and I would do anything to relive those moments. It is truly unforgettable.

Unforgettable. I always had the fear of communicating with the Europeans as I always tend to look down on my English language and lack the confidence to speak to them. This trip changed my entire perspective. Not only was I able to communicate with them, I also created a very amazing relationship and friendship with all the new people I met there! Besides that, I was a little lost in school and was almost giving up in my studies. Most of my focused was placed in my extracurricular activities as I felt that it was more important as I have a strong believe that students learn much more through extracurricular activities. However, after visiting many top universities in the UK and listened to many seminars given there, I found out that no matter where our interests lie, studies always come first. Moreover, after experiencing student life in the UK for two weeks, I now have a broader understanding of how the education system works in the UK. There are so many little things that must be taken into consideration when choosing a University. Those little things cannot be attained by just attending a University Fair in Malaysia or flipping through a prospectus, it must be seen and felt in person by the student themselves and Kingdom Education program offers that. To students, I can guarantee that whoever joins this program would not regret it at all. To parents who are reading this, your money spent would definitely not be in vain.

I really enjoyed this brief trip where I learnt so much and had many eye-opening experiences. I will never forget it as it was the first time I travelled as an adult, without anyone as a guide and making decisions alone. Many bonds were formed between me and my fellow peers from different nationalities, especially those from Hong Kong. These people were the ones that stood out for me and made it memorable from playing snooker in the junior common room to deep talks at night. This trip and the friends I have made along with it will always have a special place in my heart.
